2. Participants must be in possession of a barcoded green ID and a valid South African passport.
3. Participants are not allowed to work for Caxton or any of the sponsor companies of the competition or have immediate family members working for Caxton or any of the sponsor companies of the competition.
4. The organiser cannot and will not be held responsible for any loss, damage or injury to the participant and his/her property.
5. Entering the competition does not mean automatic selection to be a participant.
6. Teams for participation in the competition will be chosen at the relevant newspaper's editor's sole and absolute discretion.
7. Participants will be expected to sign all documents presented to them during the competition, including but not limited to agreements, waivers, releases and the participant agreement.
8. Participants must live in the East Rand or South enter.
9. Participants will be expected to make themselves available to the organisers at any time, to participate in the programme and in any publicity for the competition.
10. Participants will be expected to fully cooperate if asked about their personal history, criminal record, backgrounds and identities by the organisers.
11. Participants are required to participate in the entire programme and events related to the programme, until the final day of the competition without any interruption, regardless of personal or religious practices.
12. Participating teams must ensure that at least one member of the team has a valid driver's licence and his/her own transport. The organisers of the competition will not be held responsible for the transportation of the participants.
13. By entering this competition, participants automatically acknowledge that they are in good physical and mental health, and that they do not know of any medical, psychological or other condition that could affect or prevent their participation in the competition.
14. Participants also automatically acknowledge, when they submit their entry for the competition, that they do not currently, and will not use any prohibited substances during the competition.
15. Participants must understand that any recordings, tapes, videos, photographs or any other 'recordings' taken or made of them during the competition, belongs to Caxton, the organisers of the competition, and can and will be used as seen fit.
16. Regardless of whether entrants are selected to participate in the competition; all materials submitted to Caxton as an entry will be used as seen fit.
17. Participants may not give any interviews or statements to any media outlet with regards to the competition before, during or after the competition without the organisers' approval.
18. If participants breach any of the mentioned clauses in the rules and regulations or the entry form, they will stand liable to legal action being taken against them.
19. If participants have any negative feedback about the competition; Caxton asks that this be communicated to the organisers directly. Participants may not voice their dissatisfaction with the competition on any other platform or they will be disqualified immediately.

20. Caxton will not disclose any personal information of entrants or participants to anyone or any other company. Confidential information will be held confidential.
21. Participants are not and will not be allowed to exchange any prizes received during the competition for cash or any other form of currency.
22. Participants must accept full responsibility with regards to getting all personal documentation such as passports up to date and ready for use should they win the grand prize which might involve traveling abroad.
23. The final prize is a trip for two persons only – Only one room/suite will be provided at the final destination. Should team members not wish to share a room, an extra room must be booked and fully paid for to SA Reynolds Travel Centre on their own accord. The booking or payment of this extra room will not be the responsibility of any of the coordinators of the competition or their affiliates.
24. Participants must ensure that they have access to the internet at all times in case leads, or other important information is given via online portals.
25. Participants must complete all tasks given to them in order to earn points. Top three teams will be chosen based on their points earned by the end of round 8 of the competition.
26. Participants must have access to electronic recording equipment, i.e. smartphones, camera, tablets, etc, as completed tasks must be recorded and submitted online via reynoldsrace2014@gmail.com.
27. Participants may not have any contact with any Caxton employees regarding confidential information or clues on tasks given, to ensure a fair and just competition for all. If participants have any queries or do not understand the tasks given, they may contact the organisers or sponsors for clarity, but no help will be given to give any participants an upper hand.
28. Participants are required to adhere to all requirements made to them by their team sponsors. If asked to wear branded t-shirts or use car magnets etc. they are required to do so at all times during participating in the Caxton Reynolds Race. Failure to comply with sponsors and coordinators of the competition will result in immediate disqualification and both team members will be fined with 5000.00 ZAR each or face legal action.
29. If and when participants are asked to travel with reporters or any other staff of coordinators or sponsors involved in the competition they must do so.
30. Participating teams may not solicit or use the physical help of outsiders/outside parties to help them execute their tasks as this grants an unfair advantage to the said team. If any team is seen using the physical help of people who are not in their team of two persons will be disqualified.
31. Rules & regulations may be changed or adapted by the organisers under extreme circumstances. These changes will have no effect on the results of the competition.
